Dear Members and Friends:

I recently spent time with four old friends reflecting on the decades we’ve lived so far: the people who have influenced us on our life’s journey, what we’re grateful for and what we want to consider next. Exploring the questions together brought invaluable insights that I couldn’t have accomplished alone, while strengthening the bonds between us. These are the gifts of community – discovering who we are now, in the reflection of other people, and building supportive relationships in the process.

SF Village is offering several opportunities this Fall to connect with others while exploring new ideas. Beginning in late September, we’re excited to co-sponsor a four-part workshop with Community Living Campaign called Connections for Healthy Aging. The interactive workshop will explore insights and obstacles to healthy aging; steps to being better prepared, including how to advocate for yourself, and make informed choices. I suspect the workshop will raise many questions worth further consideration.

One of the questions that keeps surfacing in our Village is Why is it so difficult to ask for help? We convened a panel discussion on the topic last year and received a lot of positive feedback, including requests to repeat it. So on October 9th we will gather once again, with panelists Patrick Arbore Ed.D and Beth Macleod LCSW, to identify some of the hindrances to receiving help and how we might challenge ourselves to think differently.

I like to think of our community as a living, breathing organism that responds to whoever shows up and voices their needs. Several months ago a few members in their 60’s and 70’s requested a group that would focus on Life After Retirement: what’s my purpose now that I’m not working; have my values changed; where have I been and where am I headed? So, we’ve asked our colleague Donna Schempp LCSW to facilitate a 4-part workshop starting in late October to begin the conversation.

Another group of members started meeting regularly this summer to talk about long term care planning. Questions came up like: who will care for me when I need it; what role will SF Village play; how do I select a health care agent; what are the end-of-life options I should consider? In response to their thoughtful questions, we have engaged September Williams MD, a bioethicist who will help members explore and verbalize their preferences at two meetings in November.

Please refer to the Save the Date section of this newsletter for more details about these upcoming events. As your partner in active aging, we are committed to providing you with access to expert guidance and support so that you can remain independent and connected as you age.

Kind regards,
Kate

COFFEE & CONVERSATION: Heat Wave!

Thursday September 18, 2014 from 3:00 - 4:30 PM
IOA Ponderosa Room, 3575 Geary Blvd.
RSVP to info@sfvillage.org

Heat waves in San Francisco?! This presentation will provide information about extreme heat in San Francisco, types of heat-related illnesses, and what you can do to take care of yourself and others. Older adults are at greatest risk for a heat-related illness.
Few people view San Francisco as a place to be concerned about extreme heat events, because of its temperate climate. But climate change models project that heat waves will increase in frequency and severity. Further, the city showed specific vulnerabilities during the 2006 California heat wave, due to our lack of physiologic and technological adaptations for extreme heat events.

San Franciscans rarely experience extreme heat events, so our bodies have a more difficult time adapting which can increase the risk of heat related illness and death. We also have fewer technological adaptations, like central air conditioning, because of the typically cooler climate and older housing stock.

Presentation by Teri Dowling, MA, MPH from the San Francisco Department of Public Health.

- Important documents every senior should have prepared and stored in a manner that is safe, secure, and accessible in an emergency
- Proven ways to prevent isolation and loneliness
- Tips and resources for how you or loved one can survive a hospital stay and enjoy a smooth transition back home
- Simple, on-line tools that can support us to be informed and empowered as we age

Participants should plan to attend all four sessions. Free lunch will be provided. Workshop trainers include Marcia Peterzell, Linda Silver, Marie Jobling, CLC Connectors, SF Village staff, and other guests.
SATURDAY DAY OF SERVICE
Saturday October 11th

Looking to finish off those pesky to-do list items? Look no further. San Francisco Village is partnering with local community members to provide a day of service for Village members on Saturday October 11th.

SFV members are asked to submit a list of home maintenance projects that do not require a professional such as gardening, light house cleaning, mattress flipping, light bulb changing, light painting, etc. Members may also request some basic technology assistance such as help with e-mail, accessing the Internet, or training on their iPAD or smartphone. Volunteers will be available to assist in homes from 10:00 a.m. to 4:00 pm and will work in groups of 2 to 4 at each residence.

A Village staff member will make a home visit prior to the projects to approve each list. Participation is limited to 10 homes based on the current number of volunteer participants. This is a wonderful opportunity to create some intergenerational community, have some fun and get those nagging to-do lists completed!! All participating volunteers will be screened before approval.

Please submit your list to Keyatta at Key@sfvillage.org or by calling (415) 387-1375 no later than noon Friday September 19th. A home visit will take place the following week.

FALL MENTORING EXCHANGE PROGRAM

Once again, SFV is partnering with City Art’s & Technology High School for a Mentoring Exchange Experience between our members and 9th grade students. Members and students will meet one-on-one at a designated venue so that the students can gain perspective on our member’s career paths and life choices.

Members will also be given the opportunity to get to know the students; ask questions about their families and interests. Students will come prepared with a list of questions to help frame the conversation. At the end of each session, both students and members will have the opportunity to share what they learned from the experience.
Members who are interested should call the office to sign up for a spot. Mentoring days include Wednesdays 10:00 a.m. - noon:

- October 1st
- October 29th
- November 12th
- December 3rd

The Village will host a final convening specifically for members in December to discuss the entire experience and its value. RSVP to SF Village at (415) 387-1375 for more information.

There are significant moments in everyone’s day that can make literature. That’s what you ought to write about. (Raymond Carver, On Being a Writer)

- Have you always wanted to write your memoir but didn’t know where to start?
- Have you got some poems tucked away in a drawer?
- Do you have an idea for a gripping novel?

If you answered “yes” to any of these questions, then we invite you to the San Francisco Village Writers’ Workshop.

We welcome writers of all levels and will try different writing styles – from memoir, to poetry to short and long fiction. We will explore poets and authors that resonate with us – and try to figure out how they transfer their experiences, thoughts and feelings to the written page. And we will, to paraphrase poet Robert Frost, learn how to “surprise our readers, and ourselves, with our words.”

The Writers’ Workshop is led by writer and journalist Elaine Elinson, author of the award-winning Wherever There’s a Fight and former editor of the ACLU News. Elinson, who holds an MFA in Creative Writing has taught writing at several senior centers in San Francisco. We will have three one-hour sessions. Part of each session of it will be devoted to writing. All welcome, no experience necessary!

VOLUNTEERS OF THE MONTH

Wynn and Will Burkett

by Keyatta Shade

Wynn Burkett, and her 13 year old son Will, spent the spring and summer volunteering with SFV member Steve Abensohn. Their efforts not only helped him continue to live independently in his home, but the three of them formed a special friendship.

Prior to working with Steve, the Burketts had done a few ad-hoc volunteer jobs for the Village, but were hoping for a more meaningful experience. “We really wanted an ongoing connection with someone,” Wynn said.

The door opened to a perfect opportunity when Steve’s previous volunteer retired in March. The Burketts assisted Steve with everyday things around his home, made sure the trash and recycling got to the right place, and even cleaned air filters. “Our biggest challenge was figuring out how to use the high-tech vacuum cleaner,” Wynn joked. “Luckily for us, Steve is a good teacher.”

The experience gave them the chance to know Steve on a personal level. They learned that Steve taught at a local college and that he had a good sense of humor. “We got to see the academic year from his perspective,” Wynn said. “Who knew that grading an exam is even more work than taking one?”

Will also found it interesting that Steve was a teacher. “I really liked hearing about computer science which he teaches,” Will said.

Steve expressed how important it was to have them at his home each week. “I am able to live a fulfilling life, getting help with my basic needs at home, thanks to them. It was impressive to see how they worked so well together.”

13 year old Will said he was surprised that helping with such simple tasks could make such a big difference in Steve’s life. “It felt really good helping him,” Will said. “Volunteering with SF Village is fun.”
Wynn saw the opportunity as a way to help Steve but also a meaningful way to bond with her son. “It was great to do this with Will, who is at an age where he wouldn’t necessarily choose to spend time with his mom,” Wynn said. “Volunteering with SFV was something we could do together that took the focus off of us and put it on doing something productive for someone else.”

WELCOME OUR NEW ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANT

SF Village welcomes a new part-time administrative assistant, Darlene Adena, from the Enterprise Program for High School Students. Darlene is just starting her junior year at George Washington High School. She enjoys dancing, playing softball, listening to music, and being with her friends or family. “I like being involved in activities where I’m either surrounded by people or creativity,” Darlene said.

Darlene says she hopes to gain more knowledge and wisdom from within the Village community as a result of working here. “I’m getting in touch with new skills and learning something new each time I come to work. I work with generous people who you can tell are very dedicated to their job each day, which makes the work atmosphere a wonderful one to work in.”

Darlene is close with her grandparents and feels a natural connection to the SF Village community. “I wanted to be a part of this organization to get in touch with the feeling I had growing up with them and to learn more about how SF Village members interact with each other and the program.”

Preserving Seniors’ Homes—Mary Moore Gaines

Family Caregiver Alliance presents a webinar on Wednesday September 24th from 1:00 p.m. to 2:00 p.m. on Medi-Cal benefits and protecting assets. Seniors sometimes hold back from claiming Medi-Cal coverage out of concern that, after they pass away, state collections might keep heirs from claiming the family home. Medi-Cal claims against estates are a real possibility but there are steps to take that may protect assets for a family's next generation.

Myths and rumors in this area keep too many seniors from obtaining needed benefits. Learn more about eligibility for Medi-Cal benefits and what asset protection steps may be available. Register at https://www3.gotomeeting.com/register/480695062. Cost: $15
